FOURTH

Alice Longworth Says

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, July 3.—Conversation about Mr. Roosevelt's third term ambitions is beginning to center around the last sentence in his acceptance speech. Part of this sentence was lost to the crowd at Franklin Field because of the noise that started when the audience realized that the peroration was under way.

He had been talking about the "war for the survival of democracy." His words were: "I accept the commission you have tendered me. I join with you. I am enlisted for the duration of the war."

The question naturally arises, how long is the war going to be? The war for the survival of democracy has been going on since the concept of democracy was first evolved. Strange as it may seem President Roosevelt did not originate the idea, nor is he the first to enlist in the war for its survival.

Whether the president wins or loses in November, he probably will be quoting from this enlistment affirmation four years from now.

If you go swimming tomorrow, BE CAREFUL. Persons who are not experienced swimmers should not go in alone, and they should not go in swimming in unfrequented spots unless accompanied by several experienced swimmers.

Another fine rain drenched the local district during the night. It was preceded by a regular cloudburst which broke at 11:30 and lasted for about ten minutes. It freshened things up considerably. As the rain of Wednesday night just seemed to dampen the ground following the dry spell which had preceded it.

Speaking of unusual house pets Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Ransome of East Main street, need some recognition. Some time ago Mr. Ransome discovered a baby groundhog on his lawn and he immediately took it into the house. The animal is now much like a dog in its habits, it will leave the house but never fails to return. He is very tame and likes to be petted, and has received the name of "Whistler."

A fresh coat of paint on the telephone boxes in the police telegraph system would greatly enhance their beauty. These boxes have been in service for quite a while and are beginning to show signs of wear.

Merger street and Delaware avenue routes to the northern part of the city are getting a lot more traffic than usual today. A break in a storm sewer on Highland avenue at the Highland United Presbyterian church, has resulted in autos being detoured around this section of Highland avenue. Street cars on the Highland avenue line are operating as usual.

Don't look now but there are a lot of men bathing at local beaches who are not wearing tops.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Foley of 109½ East North street, who sent birthday greetings to King Edward of England on June 23, have received a nice letter of thanks reading as follows: "Buckingham Palace. The private secretary is commanded by the king to thank Mr. and Mrs. (Continued on Page Two)

Silk Stocking Murderer Will Die On Gallows

Found Guilty By California Jury Of Killing Woman On June 17

JURY VERDICT SAYS HE'S SANE

Delay In Execution Will Be Occasioned By Automatic Higher Court Appeal

(International News Service)
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., July 3.—Albert Walter, Jr., 28 year old Bostonian who confessed the silk stocking sex strangling of red haired Blanche Cousins, 25, will get his wish—he will die on the gallows.

Walter was in condemned row today after he heard the death sentence pronounced on him in superior court in San Francisco yesterday by Judge Lile T. Jacks after a jury of eight men and four women found him sane.

Execution Date Delayed
Under California law Walter's case will be automatically appealed to the state supreme court.

Thus, the scheduled date of execution, Sept. 4, will be automatically delayed.

On the night of June 17, the dapper youth walked into the hall of justice and told police inspectors: "I killed a girl. My conscience made me give myself up."

He then led inspectors to a Nob Hill apartment where the nude ravished body of Miss Cousins was found. One of her silk stockings was tightly knotted about her throat.

SIX PERSONS ARE BEING QUIZZED

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 3.—Three men and three women were in police custody today for questioning in connection with the brickbat murder of Mrs. Florence Thompson Bolin Castle, but police continued to pin their hope of solution on the efforts of the first of her three husbands to secure pertinent information from their seven-year-old son, who told police a fantastic tale of the slaying.

The boy, Jimmy, told police he lay asleep beside his mother in her small apartment in a near north side theatrical hotel early Monday morning and was awakened by the murderer—"a big black man". Jimmy said he conversed with the slayer as he crushed the auburn-thatched head of the pretty 24-year-old cabaret hostess with a paving brick. Jimmy went back to sleep, he said, and did not awaken until 5:30 a. m., when he dressed and notified the hotel desk clerk of the murder.

Unwilling to entirely dismiss the boy's imaginative tale, but inclined to the belief it is a figment of an active imagination, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan placed (Continued on Page Two)

Community Prepares To Celebrate Fourth

Oratory, picnic lunches, sunburn, athletics, fireworks and bathing suits will be all stirred together tomorrow, Saturday, July 4, for the annual celebration of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It all started in the City of Philadelphia in 1776, but the celebrations have been going strong ever since. This year's celebration will be a week end affair. Early this afternoon the automobile hegar will be starting for the woods, the creeks and the thousand and one spots where Mr. and Mrs. New Castle will be spending the well known glorious Fourth.

Police Of Chicago Seek Woman Seen Running From Hotel

MURDER OCCURS IN LUXURIOUS ROOMS

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 3.—Wanted for questioning concerning the murder of a beautiful platinum blonde show girl in her luxurious apartment yesterday afternoon, police today intensified their search for Mrs. Ruth Freed, identified from photographs by hotel employees, police said, as the woman seen running from the hotel.

The victim was Miss Audrey Vallette, 31, twice married and divorced, descendant of a pioneer Chicago family, prominent figure in the gay night life of Chicago's Bohemian near north side.

A bullet had been fired into her body as she lay in bed enjoying a late breakfast tray. Police hoped to question Mrs. Freed, wife of a night club manager, today, following a visit to police headquarters by her attorney, who said he would advise her to surrender.

Capt. Andrew Barry revealed today a picture of Mrs. Freed had been identified as that of a woman who went to Miss Vallette's apartment a few moments before the shooting. This woman was seen hurrying from the hotel immediately after Harold Knox, assistant manager of the hotel, saw Miss Vallette's room light flash on the switchboard.

"I heard her gasp: 'I'm shot,'" Knox said.

Hamilton Formally Launches Campaign For Governor Landon

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 3.—With barbed jibes at "Jobmaster General Farley" and the Roosevelt administration and a plea for re-establishment of a "government of laws which alone can assure the permanence of American institutions and guarantee equality of justice and opportunity," John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, had formally launched the midwestern campaign for the presidential election of Gov. Alfred M. Landon here today.

Speaking at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 3000 persons, Hamilton was wildly cheered when he predicted the election of Landon and Knox "by a landslide vote."

Comparing the Republican and Democratic platforms he said: "The Republicans prepared and adopted a straightforward platform with specific suggestions for solving the problem of our times and expressing the conviction that the American people are still capable of governing themselves.

One week ago the Philadelphia convention ratified a charter of personal government which sought to conceal a record that could not be justified, and to extend for an indefinite period the irresponsible powers of a centralized executive."

Assaults Evasions.
Hamilton referred to the "misrepresentations, evasions, and omissions" by which speakers at the Democratic national convention "seek to justify their record," and ironically commented on "the extraordinary spectacle of their candidate for president so uncertain of carrying his own state that he must draft the aid of a governor, whom he himself placed in office, at the sacrifice of that man's own personal preferences and probably political future."

Wheat Prices Show Advance
Drought In Northwest Causes Increase In Wheat Price In Markets

SHORT CROP IN SOME SECTIONS
(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 3.—With reports still pouring in today from drought-stricken states of the northwest indicating almost certain crop failures, all hard grains soared to the limit on Chicago and other American markets, although there was a marked drop in farm equipment shares.

In Chicago yesterday, wheat had advanced to the daily limit of five cents a half-hour before the market was scheduled to close, and speculators were not eager to sell at that arbitrary price, because of their relief that there would be a further advance today.

No Rain Expected
There appeared to be no let-up in the bleak outlook for the northwestern states today, with no rain expected and a further decline in crop conditions. With the crops already far below normal, this point (Continued on Page Two)

Attempts Suicide In Session Of League

(International News Service)
GENEVA, July 3.—The League of Nations assembly was thrown into confusion for the second time this week today in a second unprecedented sequel to the Italo-Ethiopian war when a Czechoslovakian newspaper photographer dramatically attempted to commit suicide in protest against the League's failure to save Ethiopia from conquest. The would-be-martyr acted also in protest against treatment of the Jews in Germany.

The cameraman, Stephen Lux, of the Prague "press" suddenly rose during a speech by Augusto Barcia, Spanish foreign minister, and shouted out a startling cry of "Adieu!"

Bullet In Head
Then, before statesmen knew what to make of the outburst, a shot rang out. Lux had fired a bullet into his head. He fell into a swoon and was rushed to a hospital where he was reported to be dying as surgeons attempted to remove the bullet.

In the cameraman's pockets were found letters addressed to the King of England, British foreign secretary, Anthony Eden and to editors of British newspapers deploring the League's failure to save Ethiopia. Another letter protested the situation to the Jews in the Reich.

On Wednesday the assembly was started when eight Italian journalists heckled Haile Selassie, defeated Ethiopian emperor and were thrown out, kicking and fist-fighting, by police.

Government May Purchase Cattle In Arid Northwest

Hope Further Break In Weather May Avert Necessity Of Such Action

DROUGHT RELIEF PLANS PREPARED

Wallace And Tugwell Make Ready To Expend Huge Sum For Drought Aid

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 3.—Hoping for a further break in the drought that stretches from the Rockies to the Appalachians, the special drought committee met with department of agriculture experts today to map plans for purchasing cattle of the arid northwest unless rain falls in the next fortnight.

Only grain and grass-saving rains over the corn belt will prevent necessary buying up of tens of thousands of head of livestock from the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming officials said.

Already the drought in the Dakotas, Montana and parts of Wyoming and Northwestern Nebraska has ruined the spring wheat crop and the grazing lands in that sector. Cattle still are bringing good prices on the markets, and Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota reported that thousands of head have been shipped to market in the last two weeks.

Must Ship Cattle
Further drought will necessitate shipping tens of thousands more to other pasture and feed lands, or to the market. If the drought continues (Continued on Page Two)

SOME RAIN FALLS IN LAKES REGION

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Soaring temperatures, rising above the 103 mark in the northwestern drought area were reported today as President Roosevelt's special drought committee met to draft a program for drought relief.

Scattered showers brought some relief in the Great Lakes region, with more rains forecasted for that section and the northeastern part of the country.

There were no rains, however, in sight for central and northern portions of the grain belt except for scattered showers for Michigan, eastern and southern Wisconsin, northeastern Iowa, southeastern Minnesota, northeastern North Dakota (Continued on Page Two)

LANDON TO LEAVE RANCH

Will Return To Kansas Capital

Completes First Draft Of His Speech Of Acceptance For July 23

WILL GREET CROWD AT GREELEY, COLO.

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ESTES PARK, Colo., July 3.—With a first draft of his acceptance speech completed, Governor Landon began preparations today to leave Estes Park tomorrow for Topeka, bringing to a close a ten-day stay here devoted both to recreation and campaign duties.

Writing on a manila pad in a laborious longhand, the G. O. P. presidential nominee, it was learned, has completed a tentative draft of the address he will deliver when he is formally notified of his nomination at Topeka, July 23. Work was begun on the document a week before he left the Kansas capital for his vacation here.

The nominee's itinerary home calls for him to leave here at noon tomorrow by automobile for Greeley, Colo., for a brief appearance at a Fourth of July rodeo there. He is scheduled to proceed to Denver, enroute for Kansas late in the afternoon. The nominee plans to spend Sunday with friends on a farm near Topeka, arriving at the state capital Monday morning.

Greeley rodeo officials said a crowd of 20,000 would be on hand to greet Landon when he stops there. No speech is slated.

Meanwhile, today a group of state Republican leaders headed by National Committee Chairman Lawrence Phipps, former United States senator from Colorado, came here for lunch with the nominee at the McGraw ranch six miles from here. Arriving in Denver this morning to be driven here immediately was William B. Bell of New York, chairman of the G. O. P. finance committee.

ues, pasture lands of the Middle West will be burned out, and there will be no place to send the cattle but to the market—with consequent reductions in prices.

Acting on instructions telegraphed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from Duluth, Jesse W. Tapp, chairman of the department of agriculture-AAA committee, drew preliminary plans for spending $5,000,000 if necessary in the cattle purchasing program.

with the president's special committee, with Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, resettlement administrator, acting as chairman in the absence of Wallace, to go over the plans. Acting WPA administrator Aubrey Williams and acting director of the budget Daniel W. Bell complete the president's committee.

It is up to Bell to find money for carrying out the drought relief program. WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins already has ordered work projects to provide jobs for 40,000 in the drought area to be put under way at once. The WPA program can provide for approximately 25,000 more in the northwest area, according to Hopkins' assistants.

Resettlement officials estimated that 100,000 families in the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming and Nebraska would have to be given aid if the drought continues. Resettlement is scheduled to receive $83,000,000 from the $1,442,000,000 work relief fund provided by congress in the deficiency appropriation measure. How much of this fund can be used for loans and grants to farmers—victims of the drought is up to the president, according to RA officials.

ed to a further activity and advance in prices of grain futures.

Experts held that the winter and spring crops combined will fall short of the 635-million bushels, considered necessary for the nation's consumption, and that the United States again will have to play the role of an importer to get its full quota of "bread."

Harvest Next Week
Even should rains now come in the northwest the expert observers believe this will have little effect on the spring crop because harvesting is scheduled to commence next week.

The nation got some solace in the fact, however, that the southern states and the Great Lakes region were favored by rain, and that a government program was being rushed to aid the drought-stricken areas.

Federal processing and purchasing of a million cattle in the northwest and central states was authorized by Washington, while it was also reported the AAA and the federal surplus commodities corporation would join to spend $5,000,000 in removing cattle from sun-burnt ranges, and donating the meat to state relief agencies.

Zioncheck Gets 'Cool' Welcome

Seattle Citizens Fail To Show Any Enthusiasm For "Madcap" Congressman

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash., July 3.—There was no joy in the homecoming of Seattle's madcap congressman, Marion A. Zioncheck today. The welcome of Zioncheck was decidedly cool and damp—both climatically and in the small crowd on hand at the station here when his train rolled in.

Probably 150 persons were there and at least three-quarters of that number met other passengers in the train.

Fails To Smile
Zioncheck was hustled off the rear end of the train and whisked away in an automobile which had been driven onto the lower level of tracks.

In the car were the congressman's sister, Mrs. William Nadeau, and another woman, probably Zioncheck's wife.

The congressman varying his usual custom, successfully avoided newspapermen. Even photographers were thwarted.

The brief, fleeting glimpse caught of Zioncheck as he raced from the rear of the train to the waiting car, showed an unsmiling countenance, with lips grimly set on the usual cigar.

Eugene R. Foley for their kind message of congratulation on his Majesty's birthday, 23rd of June, 1936. Because of mourning for the king's late father, the letter and envelope were bordered in black. June 23, incidentally, is Mr. Foley's birthday and the couple's second wedding anniversary.

"The Covered Wagon" was the name painted on the side of an unusual trailer attached to the car of S. P. Bailey of DuBois, Pa., which bore Florida and Georgia licenses, seen here last night. It had sleeping quarters for four people, a kitchen sink, ice box, cook stove and almost every modern home comfort.

An elderly man who whistles away a considerable amount of time sitting on one of the benches on the Diamond, told Young Pa New early this morning that he counted 50 new attractive cabs and approximately 100 new automobiles which were being driven through town today. He also said that an average of 40 to 50 cars, bearing license plates from other states are noticeable between the hours of 7 and 12.

For an interesting evening's visit, Pa New suggests the Jordan game farm, near Harlansburg. Despite the fact that the local farm is one of two of its kind in Pennsylvania, very few persons make a tour of the farm, the writer learned last evening.

A proof reader of The News tells Pa New that she met a strange pedestrian this morning at the corner of Butler avenue and East Washington street—a large turtle, wet and dripping from the night's rain.

Bass fishermen were dealt a blow below the belt by the weatherman last night, when he sent a deluge over the local district, causing the streams to become very muddy. Almost an inch and a half of rain fell during the night here, and earlier in the evening, quite a storm passed around to the north.

City police in cruiser cars will watch for speeding from now on and one of the points which will be watched closely is the hospital zone in Wilmington avenue. Councilman J. D. Alexander has complained of speeding in that district.

FREE

(From the Emancipation Proclamation, 1863)

Freedom! Throughout the life of our nation, it has characterized the hope, the desire, and the force behind each forward step. Freedom has motivated the growth, controlled the expansion, and marked the development of our government and our people.

But freedom cannot exist without responsibility, and with that responsibility must continue to rest with the individual. Concerted action of individuals made it possible; concerted action of individuals must retain it. On this, the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the birth of the world's first free nation, we must acknowledge this responsibility, and in acknowledging it, pledge continued support and allegiance to it.

Twenty One Dead In Texas Flood

Towns along the upper stretches of the river were busy today cleaning up debris left by the receding torrents.

In Another Dilemma

Argentina's and Chile's ultimatum put the harrassed League powers into another dilemma.

If they walk out—following the resignations this year of Nicaragua and Guatemala, the remainder of the Latin-American bloc would follow, authorities fear.

On the other hand, if the anti-annexation resolution is adopted, there is every likelihood that Italy would drop out, ending hope for Italian collaboration in the security alignments proposed by Delbos, to gain which the powers planned to end sanctions.

But if 10,000 people were busy in a peanut patch, they would think themselves "in the midst of big things."

HOW TO KEEP COOL...

When it's in the sweltering 90's and you're ready to drop from the heat, do what they do in the tropics. Turn to tea. Allow 2 teaspoons of tea to each person. Infuse in teapot, as for hot tea. Place ice cubes in glass; pour on hot tea, adding sugar and lemon to taste.

In hot weather, keep a pitcher of iced tea in the ice box. Have it ready all day.

Turn to TEA Today!

INDEPENDENCE

Yesterday ... Today ... Tomorrow

Over a century and a half ago, our colonial fathers fought for it—Independence from foreign tyranny—and they won. Today, you desire Independence of another form entirely, but to have it you must also fight. And you can also win.

The Independence you desire today, in your home, in your business, and in your financial affairs—all must be built upon sound planning and execution of those plans. Use this store in planning your Grocery and Meat Budget. Others have done it and have always realized Independence in their Tomorrows.

Freedom! Throughout the life of our nation, it has characterized the hope, the desire, and the force behind each forward step. Freedom has motivated the growth, controlled the expansion, and marked the development of our government and our people.

But freedom cannot exist without responsibility, and with that responsibility must continue to rest with the individual. Concerted action of individuals made it possible; concerted action of individuals must retain it. On this, the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the birth of the world's first free nation, we must acknowledge this responsibility, and in acknowledging it, pledge continued support and allegiance to it.

FOURTH OF JULY

WITH Europe under the heel of dictators, the Fourth of July this year ought to have a fresher significance for Americans. It begins to look as though Europeans, "fed up" on tyranny of one sort or another, may be growing daily more envious of the popular freedom which above all things America's Independence Day symbolizes.

We have been observing the Fourth of July for a good many years. If any ceremony is repeated often enough, it may become meaningless unless time is taken to remember just what the ceremony signifies. There have been a lot of Independence Days, since an old bell in a Philadelphia steeple rang out the announcement of the first one. A lot of flags have been run up, a lot of bands have tooted their lips tired, a lot of explosives and rockets have been set off, and a lot of speakers have shouted themselves hoarse; sometimes it seems as if all these observances had got a bit stale, so that no one any longer bothers to think of what's back of them.

And yet, even if this Fourth of July symbol has been used over and over again, the reality which stands back of it is just as much alive now as it ever was—and just as much worth thinking about.

Those men of 1776 didn't go to war just because they disliked the king of England, or because they were feeling their oats and needed a good, brisk fight. War meant hunger and mutilation and death then, just as it does now; and the colonists went into it for perfectly definite and substantial reasons.

They fought, in brief, because they had discovered what a precious thing freedom was; because they felt that the common man's right to live his own life and work his own destiny was a right worth suffering and dying for; because they believed that with the strange new instrument called democracy men could carve out a happier and freer world for themselves.

Freedom and democracy weren't popular words in those days. When the first Independence Day was celebrated, most of Europe looked on Democracy as an impractical dream that could never conceivably work properly. Most of Europe, judging from the prevalence of dictatorships, feels the same way about it today.

In the years following the American Revolution, the people of the United States showed that democracy could be made to work and that freedom was something in which the humblest man might share. Fourth of July is a day worth celebrating in an impressive way.

ARE YOU A GENTLEMAN?

The Michigan Motor News asks a number of disquieting questions which will require most of us to pause and ponder and to experience embarrassment if we undertake to answer them honestly.

Are you a sportsman? We hasten to answer in the affirmative. As proof we cite the fact that we would not take eleven trout as a day's catch when the law's limit is ten. We would not shoot a doe or a fawn. We would not cheat at cards. But are you a sportsman all the way through in everything you do?

And are you a gentleman? Of course! We wouldn't push people out of our way on the sidewalk. We wouldn't think of jamming ahead of people waiting in line for tickets or for service. We wouldn't bawl, "Get out of the way!" or "Where do you think you're going?" at people on the street.

But how do you act while at the wheel of an automobile? Do you try to take advantage of everyone else? Do you charge down on pedestrians, compelling them to flee from your path? Do you sound your horn raucously and scowl fiercely to register anger?

If the answer to these questions is in the affirmative, though you are to the manner born and of a long line of distinguished ancestors, and though you have all of the cultural and social advantages that wealth can buy, and though you wear a fresh gardenia every day, and a silk hat, you are no gentleman.

TAXPAYING ACES

Nobody is quite smart enough to be able to figure out with accuracy the amount of taxation paid by the motorist by reason of his ownership of a car, since there are so many hidden items in the account. The National Highway Users Conference experts were able to trace, in the fall of 1934, $62.72 a year from the pockets of the typical light car owner into the strong boxes of local, state and federal governments; but this sum covered only the visible and direct taxes. The car buyer, of course, pays the tax bill of the car manufacturer. When he orders repairs he pays the garageman's taxation. Wherever he houses his car it chips in toward the cost of government. And the visible taxes are numerous and heavy enough.

Last year the national gasoline tax bill rose 6.4 per cent over 1934's to $619,000,000 for the use of the states alone. On top of this pile $160,000,000 collected through the one-cent tax laid by Uncle Sam. In some local jurisdictions an additional taxation is made for the benefit of home government. The states obtain through registration fees over $325,000,000. In 32 states there is a property tax on motor vehicles. There are federal taxes on wholesale value of new cars, parts and accessories, tires and tubes, and a penny-a-quart excise on lubricating oil.

Visible and direct taxation takes considerably over one billion dollars a year from the users of the highways, and if the taxes vehicle owners pay at second or third hand could be computed the total would perhaps exceed one and a half billions. Payment of this sum does not prevent tax collectors from going through the motorist's pockets to see if he has anything left for income, realty, personal property and other forms of taxes. Nor does it deprive him of the honor of being given first consideration when money-raisers look around for means of procuring more revenue. You've got to hand it to the motorist as a taxpayer. He has proved that he can take it.

PARIS, July 2.—In Nanking, China, Chiang Kai-Shek, army commander, bowed in reverence before the grave of the first emperor, who in the year 1368 drove Kublai Kahn's Mongolian army from China.

The great Chinese nation must go far back to find someone able to drive out an invading army. That Kublai Kahn, friend and protector of Marco Polo, inspired Coleridge's poem, beginning:

"In Xanadu did Kublai Kahn
A stately pleasure-dome decree;

Where Alpha, the sacred river,
Ran
Through caverns measureless to man,

Down to a sunless sea."
Coleridge was supposed to have dreamed that poem, never finished, and to have invented the native "Xanadu"; but Marco Polo mentions the great ruler's pleasure-palace built at Xanadu.

"BE ON MY SIDE"

I SAY TO MY friend: "Be on my side. In this battle I am fighting, stand with me. Love my other friends. Hate my enemies. Believe as I do. Strike when I strike. Fall when I fall."

What blind, dull, idiotic nonsense! To ask so much of a friend! To ask him to be, not himself, but me!...Do I love myself so profoundly, so abjectly, that I must convert even friendship into myself?

No, it is not.... My friend may be audacious, I cautious. I may be careless, he precise....He may be dreamy, I bound for action. I may be hot-tempered, he of a sweetness that passes understanding....And yet we may be true and lasting friends.

My spirit brightens when I come upon him. I know he is glad when he encounters me. Somehow in this mass, in this odd procession of mankind, we have met, shaken hands, understood each other. He has friends who are friends of mine. And I may have friends, who would be alien to him and his thoughts....Nor is it even necessary that we should share everything that is in our hearts. He does not want all of me, nor I all of him. We are two human beings with a boundary wall between us and we respect that boundary that is the edge of our personalities.

When I call to my friend, "Be on my side," and cry "treason!" if he does not yield himself unquestioningly, I am a fool and unworthy of his friendship, of his love....And I am forgetting that my friend WOULD be on my side, whatever happens, whatever I do....That is our friendship.

Even the Navy thought Alaska was cold. They sent planes to make test flights in 40-below weather and found it 40 above. And that was several months ago.

May opened the season—a season averaging 55 to 70 degrees—for travel to an Alaska of sun and wildflowers, as well as snow and glaciers. Although in nine days' round trip from Seattle you can see the standard sights on the southeast fringe of Alaska's ragged coastline, the trend is toward further exploration of the historic cities and the interior.

Matanuska Valley, social-agricultural laboratory of America—where carrots grow as long as your foot—may be visited at small additional cost from Alaska Steamship cruises, either round trip by rail while the steamer is in Seward, or enroute between Fairbanks and Seward. To say nothing of Russian Sikta with its blockhouses and cathedrals, Juneau with its quartz gold mine, Skagway with its famous Blanchard Gardens and its bold bad memories of '98, and Mt. Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:33. Sun rises tomorrow 4:36.

Today The News, and every large paper throughout the country, runs what are known as feature articles. These include the strips and articles by special writers. It may be interesting to News readers to know that the first feature ever printed in a newspaper was The Mother Goose Rhymes. Mrs. Goose, mother-in-law of Thomas Fleet, publisher of the Boston Evening Post, read the rhymes to his children and in 1735 he started their publication in his newspaper.

"This kitchen's in an awful state, Mary. I—"
"Never mind, missy; Ise used to white folks."

"Oh, yes, hit'll change, all right," replied Uncle Bill. "All the god-durned weather in the United States comes here to change."

After looking around over the country we have concluded that Lawrence county is a pretty good place to live. Up in Canada the caterpillars are destroying all kinds of crops, out in Kansas the grasshoppers are taking a heavy toll of the wheat crop, down south the boll weevil and other insects are devouring the cotton, while down in New Jersey the mosquitoes are fattening on humans. Here we don't have anything to bother us but our dreams and a lot of them never come true.

Saturday's Yesterdays—July 4, 1752—Benjamin Franklin raised a kite during a thunderstorm at Philadelphia, drew electric sparks from the rain-saturated string, and believed he had drawn lightning down from the storm cloud and discovered the identity of lightning and electricity.
Franklin was doubly wrong. He hadn't drawn lightning down. The storm-cloud had inductively excited the surface of the earth, as is always the case in storms, and what Franklin saw was the electric stream escaping through the wet string toward the tension set up by induction. The identity of lightning and electricity had already been discovered by M. Dalibard, Parisian.

July 4, 1776—The Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence.
Many orators and reporters will repeat the error of calling this the anniversary of the signing of Declaration of Independence, which it isn't. It was not signed by any of its adopters until a month later and all of the signatures weren't affixed for more than a year.

Adoption of the Declaration was kept a secret, and Philadelphia didn't know of it until July 8. If Liberty Bell rang out on July 4 it was to summon members of Congress to their places.

July 5, 1810—Phineas Taylor Barnum was born in Bethel, Conn., with a future as the world's greatest showman. At 19 he was editor of a newspaper in Danbury, Conn., and greater than any of his triumphs as showman was his ambition to be a great publisher and writer. He poured profits of his museum and exhibitions into the nation's first illustrated weekly. It didn't develop into a success for him, but it did for his foreman, Frank Leslie, with whom he had imbued the idea.

DEAR MISS MARKEL—I am to have a church wedding and shall wear traveling clothes. What shall I do with my purse and gloves during the ceremony? Shall I hold them in my right hand?

ANSWER—If you intend to go home before leaving on your honeymoon, you need carry no purse. You may wear your gloves and at that part of the ceremony wherein the ring will be placed on your finger slip off your left glove, or have the ring finger slit.

Of course, you should wear gloves while going from your house to the church, but you will need none during the ceremony. So, if you prefer, you may give them to someone to keep for you while you are being married.

DEAR MISS MARKEL—Who should announce my marriage? My mother and father are divorced. I am several hundred miles away from both parents, who were remarried when I was a child, leaving me with my paternal grandparents. For the past two years, I have lived alone in the town where I am employed because my grandparents' home is too far away.

MARY ANNE
Answer—Since you have spent most of your adult life with your grandparents, your friends associate you with them rather than with your mother or your father. For that reason, you should have your marriage announced by your grandparents.

See Fascism Collapse.
May Spread For A Time.
What About England?By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

CAN ENGLAND escape the leftist and rightist movements that have swept the remainder of Europe? Votes of confidence by Tory parliament in a Tory government do not signify confidence of the people.

England's government is more uncertain today than in years. Movements do not stop at a narrow body of water like the English channel. Movements do not even stop at oceans.

Which direction will England go? Observers believe fascism may spread for a while yet. Then, they expect to see it collapse of its own sins.

But man lives through a terror in the meantime. Democracy is expected to conquer. Democracy moves more slowly with severe toil—and severe toll.

Once upon a time, it leaped across an ocean, from America to France, to bring a revolution.

A few years later, American Tories were fearful the newer democracy would sweep back into the United States.

So it goes.

A NEW CONSTITUTION
The Soviet Union's draft of a new constitution now is being debated. It will be passed on in November when it will be submitted to the All-Union Congress of Soviets. It undoubtedly will be adopted.

The new constitution guarantees private property in "houses, household furnishings, articles of personal consumption and comfort, and savings accounts." Citizens further more are guaranteed employment (since all employment is by the state), rest, education, freedom of worship. And, as pointed out by Raymond Leslie Buell, American writer, freedom of anti-religious propaganda also is guaranteed as well as freedom of speech, press and assembly.

The Spread Of Christianity

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Acts 1:8—"Ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you; and ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The international uniform lesson for July 5 is Acts 1:6-14; 2:1-47, the subject being "The Coming of the Holy Spirit in Power," and the Golden Text, Acts 1:8, "Ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you; and ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Since our lessons for the next months are on "The Spread of Christianity" and taken largely from the Acts of the Apostles we quote with the publisher's permission the chapter on this book from "The Gist of the Bible Book by Book" by Dr. Alvin E. Bell, Toledo, O.)

"The Acts of the Apostles" might more properly be named "The Acts of the Ascended Christ," or "The Acts of the Holy Spirit Through the Church." Its 71 references to the Holy Spirit almost entitle it to be named "The Gospel of the Holy Spirit." It records the history of the early Christian church from the ascension of Christ to the imprisonment of Paul in Rome about 60 years later. St. Luke in his gospel had recounted "what Jesus began both to do and teach until the day in which he was taken up." Here in the Acts he recounts what Jesus continued both to do and teach after his ascension.

Keynote and Outline.

Chapter one, verse eight, gives us not only the keynote of the entire book, but indicates its plan and outline as well: "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you; and ye shall be witnesses to me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Chapters one and two tell of the reception of the promised power on the Day of Pentecost; the witness in Jerusalem is recorded in 3:1 to 6:7; the witness in Judea in 6:8 to 8:3; the witness in Samaria in 8:4 to 8:40; and the witness "to the uttermost part of the earth" in chapters 9 to 28.

Acts of Peter and Paul.

The two chief witnesses for Christ in this book are Peter and Paul, the first 12 chapters being given chiefly to the witness of Peter in and about Jerusalem, and the last 16 chapters dealing with the witness of Paul "unto the uttermost part of the earth." In the Petrine section the church is seen developing under the guidance of the Holy Spirit from a pronouncedly Jewish sect into a broad cosmopolitan body where all racial distinctions between Jew and gentile are obliterated. In the Pauline section the church becomes predominantly gentile in its spirit and membership through the fiery zeal and ceaseless activity of Paul, the great missionary and apostle to the gentiles, whose three missionary journeys are recorded.

The Risen Christ in the Church.

The Acts records how the conviction of the resurrection of Christ and the coming of the Holy Spirit transformed Peter the cowardly denier into the courageous pentecostal preacher and Saul the church's chief persecutor into Paul its chief apostle and missionary. By such Spirit filled witnesses the church spread out, as Christ commanded it should, from Jerusalem, its birthplace, to Samaria to break down an ancient prejudice, and on the Ephesus to purify it of the vulgarities of Diana, thence over into Europe to Athens and Corinth to supplant Greek culture with the nobler culture of the Christian ethic, and finally even to Rome, the center of world power. Thus "the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved," not only individuals but nations, until, as his enemies charged, his disciples had "turned the world upside down." All this they did against terrific persecution from both Jew and gentile. "The blood of the martyrs became the seed of the church," verifying the promise of the great Head of the Church that the gates of Hell should not prevail against his church.

Says Husband Spent $300 For Stomach Medicines

A prominent local lady, surprised and delighted, tells how her husband finally got RELIEF from stomach distress. He had suffered years of misery from acid indigestion, nervous headaches and functional dyspepsia; had spent $300 on medicines; in two years, she stated, but got no real relief until he took the double-acting stomach alkalizer, called WHITE SWALLOW—the new, scientific formula of FOUR different remedies for stomach distress. Now, she says her husband's appetite is like a school boy's and he eats ANYTHING and never complains of gas swelling, bloating or misery after meals.

Quick Relief

WHITE SWALLOW neutralizes acids in the stomach, expels gas, relieves pain, bloating, swelling and headaches. Relief comes immediately. It is not habit-forming like soda. Pleasant to take and it settles the stomach at once.

Costs a Trifle

You can have this relief for less than 1c a dose. Therefore, it would not be a sensible advertisement suffering from the advertising this new, scientific remedy because it has helped nearly everyone who has taken it.

My New York

By James Aswell

Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.
NEW YORK, July 3.—The New York penthouse or roof apartment seems to be going through a new phase with the shifting tastes of the people who dwell in them. Once the costly bungalows were planted with sod over stone floors and the English type of shrubbery prevailed on the terraces—privets and cedars and boxwoods.

Now the trend is toward terracing. I spent an evening not long ago with a group of Manhattanites who remember the country only from childhood, and the conversation was almost wholly devoted to the technique of pinching tomato plants to make them bear. The head of the family comes home each P. M. to don overalls and a straw hat and come to grips with the truck garden on his 100 square feet of roof terrace. He figures that this year he will be able to produce tomatoes much more cheaply. They will only cost him, to grow, about $1.00 each. His radishes reach maturity at an estimated expenditure of 20 cents each. So it goes.

Male bathers at the surrounding beaches have dispensed with shirts this year and the lady hitch-hikers of the suburbs have adopted shorts and tops as standard attire. The authorities of neighboring hamlets have surrendered in their fight against the abbreviated costumes.

It is a curious fact, however, that the girls who gallop about in these fifty togs always weigh 200 pounds or 94. There is a distressing dearth of in-betweeners.

This town's Welfare Council wages a year-round campaign in an effort to convince bedazzled girls that New York is not the promised Babylon of glitter and easy glory they may believe.

The welfare agencies are enlisting aid of daily babblers like your reported (who of course earn a living trying to convince the world that New York is all shimmer and foldrol).

Most of the youngsters gravitate here seeking stage or radio berths. The hardships they face and the disillusion they court are truly monstrous. But despite the fact that it is idiotic for any young girl to invade the big town without funds for at least a year's support in the kitty, each beglamored damsel thinks she will be the exception to the rule.

And every now and then up bobs some one-in-a-million cutie to seize the lion of fame by the tail and swing him around her shoulder. These instances make it difficult for the welfare ladies to win converts to their perfectly sound doctrine.

And speaking of fame for girls—so many of the starlets in Hollywood get that way because of some real or fancied (on the part of a director) resemblance to a personality already established. This seems to me a silly procedure, particularly in view of the yelps that are always coming out of the studios for new faces.

Yet now and then the youngsters get their break in spite of eyelashes like Joan Crawford's or shoulder blades which are the image of Merle Oberon's. Bonita Granville, aged 12, and Marcia Mae Jones, aged 11, whom you may remember from the film, "These Three," got their respective chances because they "resembled" Ann Harding in the first instance and Dolores Costello Barrymore in the second.

On Court House Hill

Commissioner as Notary Public for Mrs. Elvie M. Mitchell has been recorded at the register and recorder's office.

E. J. Walter, county assessor for the seventh ward, was at the county commissioners office yesterday securing his books, preparatory to making the county triennial assessment for the seventh ward.

A writ of replevin has been issued by A. A. Goshinski against C. B. and Annabel Smith, to secure possession of a restaurant equipment consisting of booths tables and chairs.

Property of the High Hills Orchard Company, which was transferred to the company this week by Charles H. Adams, of Pittsburgh, consists of over two hundred acres of fruit trees located on the high hill west of Pulaski. The orchard is one of the largest in the county.

It would appear that John A. Matter, dog law enforcer for this district, whose home is in Armstrong county, and who has three counties under his jurisdiction, has too much territory to cover. Under the law the enforcer must actually see sheep, chickens, or other cattle or poultry killed by dogs. Often he is needed in widely separated districts at the same time, and it is hard to get in touch with him. A case in point was a dozen chickens of an Ellwood road woman killed by dogs Wednesday night. Efforts to reach Matter Thursday forenoon failed.

The chickens must be kept until he gets there, regardless of how offensive they may become. It would seem that there ought to be some provision for a constable or an appraiser to view cattle or poultry killed, whose report could be taken by the dog law enforcer, when he is unable to make an inspection within a reasonable time.

Judge James A. Chambers, who is planning a trip to Alaska by way of Seattle, is being given many pointers by friends who have made western trips. Nearly everybody who has ever been west of New Bedford, has seen something which he thinks would interest the judge. No specified time has been set for reaching Seattle. The trip will be made by easy stages. The judge and Mrs. Chambers expect to spend considerable time exploring Yellowstone Park and other outstanding beauty spots.

Highway route 422, New Castle to Butler, will be widened from a point near the Squab farm, where the concrete ends, into Butler if the project is approved by the Butler county commissioners.

The state highway department, according to reports, favors a four lane road out of Butler to Kradel's corners, and three lanes from there to the Squab farm. It is said that state funds are available, awaiting only the approval of the commissioners. The route would follow the present road, except for the elimination of some dangerous curves. Butler county commissioners have the same problem as the Lawrence county commissioners on the New Castle-Beauford road. What will it cost in the way of damages?

Ralph Jordan who is to head a WPA project under which names and records of Lawrence county soldiers are to be compiled, conferred with Register of Graves, Thomas Edmunds today on the possibilities of getting data from his office. Mr. Edmunds has compiled a big list of soldier dead, together with the cemeteries in which they are buried, and is willing to render any assistance possible. However, there are many who are not on his list, whose records will be hard to find, owing to the deaths of direct descendants. Records at the register and recorder's office show that 2,175 discharges of soldiers from service have been recorded. It is estimated that there are many more that have not been recorded. Since the records cannot be taken out of the register and recorder's office, it is likely that the headquarters, or a branch at least, will be established at the court house. The only available room would be in the corridor, where desks could be installed for typists. The Legion home has also been suggested as headquarters but nothing definite has yet been agreed upon. The records to compile include those of all soldiers from the time of the revolution up to the present. Maps are also to be made of cemeteries, with the location of soldiers graves marked. It is also proposed to prepare a map showing all points of military or historical interest in the county. The work will take several months.

THE NEW TREATY with France, reducing the duty on French wines and liquors by 50 per cent, interests California and other wine-growing states. It should persuade them to stabilize the production of wine, establish official guarantees of purity, freedom from adulterations, mixtures and especially "fortifying" with alcohol.

In Europe, notably in France, adulteration of wines is an offense against the law. With us, it is a business.

OUR DOLLARS are worth only 59 cents each, in green paper, and government bonds are worth no more than our dollars; each having only the government's promise to pay, in paper.

But bankers, who know about money like bonds, from habit. Twenty American banks hold almost six thousand million dollars worth of those bonds. At least they will always be worth their face value in dollars, although nobody knows what kind of dollars they will be. Ordinary green dollars, bearing no interest burden for taxpayers, will be "always worth their face value." The bankers will get only those same green dollars for the bonds, on redemption day.

MCANILS SCHOOL REUNION
Fifth annual reunion of teachers, pupils and friends of the McAnils school in Big Beaver township, Lawrence county, Wednesday, June 24, 1936 about 300 persons in attendance.

A bountiful picnic dinner was served from tables arranged under the trees in the grove near the school house. The tables were decorated with summer flowers.

Rev. W. W. Willis of the Rocky Spring U. P. church, New Galilee, offered the invocation.

Pioneer life and drum corps of Pittsburgh furnished music at several times throughout the day, which was much enjoyed by the crowd. Wallace Young, the leader, was an old time member of the reunion family, addressed the crowd in a most efficient manner.

A short business meeting was called by the president, James Beatty. The minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Mildred McKinney McCown.

It was decided to hold the next reunion in June, 1937, at the same place.

Election of officers was next in order. Frank Jenkins was selected as the president of the organization for next year, Walter Werner, vice president. Mrs. Mildred McKinney McCown was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

A former pupil and teacher of the McAnils school, who passed away since the last reunion, was Thomas Sterritt McAnils of New Castle. Porter Crawford, also a former teacher, was admitted to the Jamestown hospital the day before the reunion when he had his hip broken while at work.

A picture of the crowd was taken. Baseball games were enjoyed. Irene McCready and her aides entertained the children in several contests and games.

MAY LIQUID FUELS TAX REPORT ISSUED

HARRISBURG, July 3.—Pennsylvania liquid fuels tax was collected on 566,212 gallons of gasoline admitted into the state over the Ohio boundary by border patrols of the Department of Revenue during May. Secretary of Revenue John B. Felly announced today.

The border patrols issued 963 clearance certificates covering exports and imports of 2,306,449 gallons of petroleum products during the month. Of the total amount checked 2,015,503 gallons were gasoline and 190,946 gallons were naphtha, oils, nuagen, benzol, solvent and spirits. Gasoline exports totaled 1,449,291 gallons.

TOO COLD

"Mine," wrote the film publicity agent to his sweetheart, "is a flaming super-passion; the real tender, world-shaking stuff that gets you by the heart strings; raw elemental throbs that grip and clasp and quiver and clutch. You have never before conceived such a colossal super-love could be featured through all the ages."

And she wrote back sadly: "You are getting tired of me. I miss the lyrical ecstasy of your earlier letters. Why do you write so formally, so coldly? I no longer care for you. Goodbye."

No Stand-Pat Program Seen

Ultra-Conservatives Have No Place To Go In Present Campaign

LIBERALS HAVE WIDE SELECTION

Central Press Washington Bureau 1900 S street
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, July 3.—Ultra-conservative folk find themselves with practically no place to go as the presidential campaign opens up.
No party offers them what would have been considered a stand-pat program as recently as four years ago. The extremely radical group, like the Communists and the slightly milder Socialists, of course, are anathema to them. The Lemke-ites don't suit them much better.
The Democrats are much too far to the leftward for them. And even the Republicans show signs of liberality that shock all Bourbons and all Old Guardsmen.

ARE THEY 100 PER CENT?

Now, I am not sure that the conservative leaders' leftward trend is genuinely as pronounced as their talk implies.
Gov. Alfred M. Landon, for example, may have his fingers crossed when he suggests tinkering with the United States constitution. And I have my doubts that President Roosevelt, a hereditary aristocrat, is as truly liberal as his acceptance speech indicated.
Nevertheless, if they mean what they say, neither one is as conservative as such a 100 per cent rightist as Al Smith or Lammot (not Lamont) duPont should desire.

LIBERALS HAVE CHOICE
A radical voter has got some latitude for voice.
If Landon is too conservative for him, he can drift leftward to Roosevelt. If Roosevelt is still too conservative, he can go on to Lemke.
If Lemke isn't advanced enough, he can go on to Norman Thomas or Earle Browder.
But a conservative?
Landon is the most conservative candidate in the field and he is not very conservative.

ON A LIMB
So far whom can the old-time conservative vote? The old-time liberal party is radical. The old-time radicals are as radical as ever they were—Socialists, Communists, Anarchists, whatever you please.
No party remains for the conservatives at all as I see it.

A CANADIAN VIEW
I asked a Canadian correspondent: "What was his opinion of the two conventions?"
"Well," he said, "the Democrats' boiling point is lower than the Republicans." They begin to scream and yell sooner than the Republicans do.
"But the sooner the pot boils over the sooner the ebullition ends."

SAVED BY F. D. R. SPEECH
The Republican convention then ended with a crescendo.
The Democrats wound up with an anti-climax. That is to say, it would have done so except for President Roosevelt's masterful speech at its conclusion.
That speech took much of the curse from what would otherwise have been a flat fizzle.

BACK TO FARM TREND IS SHOWN

HARRISBURG, July 3.—The back-to-the-farm movement augmented Pennsylvania's farm population by 180,000 persons during the last five years, according to the latest census figures.
There are now 975,082 persons living on farms in this state, whereas the United States Census Bureau in 1931 reported a farm population at that time of 856,694.
The state now has a non-white farm population of 4,525 persons. Pennsylvania has 191,284 farms, on which there are 213,140 occupied dwellings and 9,148 unoccupied dwellings.

AROUND CITY HALL

Councilmanic information to the effect that prospects for starting actual construction on the airport by the middle of July will be welcome news as it means the expenditure of $162,000 and employment for many men. Officials of the WPA said that the money is available, plans approved and actual work only awaits certification of the deeds for land bought by the city, to Harrisburg.

Although Mayor Charles E. McGrath has not said so in words, it was indicated yesterday afternoon during a discussion of speeding that anyone arrested twice for speeding may not have the privilege of paying a fine for the second offense but may be given a stay of one or two days in jail. The mayor realizes his police department is short and that speeding is too prevalent.

When the proposal to put up a traffic light at Jefferson and Grant street occurred yesterday, some of the councilmen said that in many cities there were lights at the bottom of steep hills and that the motorist should drive in such a way that he could stop when the red light turns against the auto. It is not yet known if a light will be placed at Park and Highland avenue.

Police court fines, forfeits, dance licenses, permits to dance, sound car licenses and monies derived from other sources resulted in police department revenues for May in the amount of $762.00. Included in the foregoing was $50.00, received from the state for dogs killed by Jack Young. This sum was placed in June's account although it actually was for dogs killed in April.

Report of Mayor Charles E. McGrath for the department of police for the month of June shows 256 arrests of whom 67 paid fines and costs. One hundred and forty-six were discharged, none sent to jail and the cases were disposed of by forfeit, pending, turned over to other law agencies or ordered from the city.

Amazing Anti-Knock Quality

TYDOL + ETHYL = THE DIFFERENT ETHYL GASOLINE!

THERE are more brands of Ethyl gasolines than there are makes and models of cars. And no one brand can be one whit better than the basic gasoline to which the Ethyl anti-knock fluid has been added.

But Tydol Ethyl is different!... With Tydol Ethyl your motor is not only driven with everything that Ethyl can give it in smooth, knockless power...but all the upper motor parts are oiled and cleaned, at the same time.

In addition to Ethyl fluid, every gallon of Tydol Gasoline contains a top-cylinder oil and a carbon-solvent. Working together, all three ingredients develop a new high in motor performance and a new low in motor upkeep. Next time try Tydol Ethyl. Sold everywhere at the regular Ethyl price.

LOCAL TROOP COMPLETES SUMMER ENCAMPMENT

Troop F Will Arrive Tonight Advices State

Will Break Camp At Noon Today, Latest Order For Return Home States

EXPECT TO GET IN AT MIDNIGHT

(Special to The News, by William K. Cochran, Troop Clerk)

CAMP WEIGEL, INDIAN-TOWN GAP, Pa., July 3, 1936.—Unless orders are changed at the last minute, Troop F will break camp at 11 o'clock this morning and are expected to arrive home at midnight tonight.

For two days the troop has been out on bivouac (somewhere in Pennsylvania, for no one seems to know where we are).

The first day and evening it rained intermittently, making life in the outdoors rather uncomfortable, but that is a part of army life and to be expected. The 103rd and 104th are engaged in a desperate struggle against each other, but the outcome has not been made known, as only some of the troop have reported in to the post command.

The troop left Tuesday morning at seven o'clock for an unknown destination. It arrived some place at noon. The portable field kitchen was set up and food and drink were ready for the men on their arrival. The afternoon was spent at this location, and at 6:30, following evening mess, the order was received to move out. In less than 30 minutes the troops were ready to move. From seven o'clock to 1:30 a. m. the men were on the go again, when they arrived at another unknown destination and set up camp for the night. At noon the troop and kitchen moved to another new bivouac, arriving at six o'clock. Patrols kept going out and coming in all night.

Recognition of Troop F's importance came in another form again while on bivouac. When the major needed someone to take charge during his absence for a time while on bivouac, Capt. George F. Mitchell was chosen.

Thursday night the troops were the guests of Col. Milton G. Baker, regimental commander, at an outdoor banquet.

Modest man! When his own soft snap seems in danger, he says the nation is on the verge of ruin.

While the city police are not required to leave the city limits on any case the officers have always responded and are willing to do so and do the best they can to help in emergency.

In case of emergency it might be well to remember to call any of these numbers, No. 8, city police, 1000 state police, 568, Sheriff Fritchard and 4378, state highway patrol.

Urges U. S. Build Gigantic Airship

(Copyright, 1936, by International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Senate Air Safety committee today recommended in a report awaiting approval of its membership the immediate construction of a dirigible similar to the Germans Hindenburg and Graf Zeppelin. The recommendations follow:

"That the congress immediately consider legislation which will give the large rigid airship its proper place as a common carrier in the transoceanic trade, either in the form of a separate merchant airship bill or by the inclusion of the merchant airship engaged in transoceanic commerce as a 'vessel' in existing merchant marine legislation.

"That eminent American structural engineers be consulted concerning the possible improvement in the frame of airships to provide that maximum of safety, useful load and service with minimum of construction cost consistent with modern metallurgical progress, production and practice.

"That sufficient governmental funds be provided immediately, either from regular or relief appropriations to permit the accomplishment of a complete airship construction and operation program on the general lines recommended to congress by the federal aviation commission."

Set Dates For Hunting Season

Small Game Season Will Be Limited To 21 Days This Fall

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, July 3.—Pennsylvania's hunters today faced the prospect of a small game season limited to 21 hunting days, a bear season of four days, and a 12-day period on male deer with no antlerless season.

Small game, the state game commission ruled at a meeting here, can be taken from 9 a. m. on November 3 until Thanksgiving day, November 26, during the current year. November 23 through November 26 will comprise the four-day season on bear, while male deer may be taken from December 1 to 12, inclusive. In announcing there would be no open season on antlerless deer, the commission also decided to keep the season on elk closed.

Youth Is Given Life Sentence For Killing Grandfather

(International News Service) BIG RAPIDS, Mich., July 3.—Sentenced to life imprisonment less than 24 hours after he shot and killed his aged grandfather, George Durling, a 21 year old high school graduate, today said the "shooting was just a clash of the younger generation with the old."

He declared he revolted against the decree of the 79-year old man, George Simer, that "anyone old enough to eat was old enough to work." He became tired of getting up at 4 o'clock every morning to work on the farm, he continued and decided to kill his grandfather "after I learned about the Elsa Maxwell case in West Virginia."

"She revolted against the older generation, too," he explained.

Colorado Woman Accuses Barber Of Love Making

Seek To Paint 'Rattlesnake' Slayer Of Wife As Modern Bluebeard

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—Seeking to paint Robert S. James, accused "rattlesnake slayer", as a Bluebeard who murdered two wives and while he was doing so made ardent love to other women, prosecutors today called to court a pretty Los Angeles brunette, Madge Reed.

Her testimony will follow that of slender young Grace Yarnall of Colorado Springs, Colo., first cousin of Winona Wallace James, the red-haired barber's fifth wife who was found drowned in a bathtub in an auto court at Manitou, Colo., four years ago.

Tells of Kisses.

Although James is on trial only for the murder of his seventh wife, the blonde Mary Bush James, whom he assertedly tortured with rattlesnakes before he drowned her, he has been openly accused of the earlier crime.

Blushing but determined, Miss Yarnall yesterday testified that James made advances to her while she was caring for Winona James who was convalescing from an automobile accident, which the state charges the barber arranged.

"Mr. James kissed me twice in my automobile as I was taking him to the hospital on different days," the girl said. "They were not the kisses of a relative, and I objected. When he tried to kiss me in his hotel room I told him sharply to cut it out."

Young Women To Be Established In Relief Camps

Fifty Camps Similar To CCC Camps Will Be Set Up

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 3.—More than 3,000 unmarried and unemployed women between 18 and 25 are going to spend part of the summer, at least, in camps as "work relief" employees of the government.

Fifty camps, similar to the CCC camps for boys, but without army supervision, are being established in various states that request them, under the direction of Aubrey Williams, National Youth Administration. The WPA will provide the funds from the new $1,425,000,000 appropriation.

From Relief Rolls

"The campers," Williams' announcement state, "all of whom will be drawn from the relief rolls, will engage in educational, vocational and recreational projects, as well as doing light landscaping and similar work."

Miss Dorothea De Schweinitz of the NYA, will direct the camps. Each camp will provide accommodations from 60 to 100 girls. They will not wear uniforms. Miss De Schweinitz said. They will do the camp work, cook the meals, wash the dishes, make the beds and keep the camps cleaned up.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

STUDYING THE STARS

About the starry heavens, most of us parents are woefully ignorant. How then are we able to talk intelligently to our children about the overwhelming magnitude of space? There are numerous astronomers who possess the facts, but most of them lack the imagination to enable us to comprehend such facts. Out at the University of Arkansas is a man who was trained in mathematics and astronomy at Chicago university, who has the gift of imagination and the gift of firing our fancies and the fancies of our children—Arthur M. Harding, Ph. D.

Dr. Harding wrote a large and well-illustrated book of 400 pages recently, "Astronomy: The Splendors of the Heavens brought Down to Earth." This is a book that anybody should enjoy, a good family book for parents to read from to young children, and for older children and adults to read and talk about to one another. See what such a book can add to the pleasures of the boy or girl looking at the starry heavens through his bedroom window, to the family sitting on the lawn or porch in summer, about the fireside in winter or the family table at any time.

Here are just a few of the fact statements in this fascinating book: "Geologists have always claimed that the oceans have been on the earth at least a hundred million years and now the chemists, from evidence found in a vein of lead in Norway, tell us that the earth is at least 900 million years old."

"The sun weighs about 700 times as much as all the planets combined, and rotates on its own axis once in 25 days... earth revolves around the sun at the rate of about 19 miles a second—1,140 miles a minute, 68,400 miles an hour."

SUN IN NORTH

The sun is in the north at midnight—not just straight down... Every star rises about four minutes earlier every day. The earth is about 93,000,000 miles from the sun... "Suppose an express train should make a trip down a straight track from the sun to the earth without a stop, at the rate of 60 miles per hour... You may be surprised to learn that if the express train left the sun on the Fourth of July, 1776... and had been running down a straight track day and night ever since and had never stopped, it would not be here yet."

Perry Winner At Wimbledon

Fred J. Perry, For Third
Successive Year Wins
Wimbledon Singles
Title

(International News Service)
WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 3.—Fred J. Perry won his third successive Wimbledon singles title today by overwhelming Germany's champion, Baron Gottfried von Cramm, in three lightning sets.

Duplicating his finals victory over Von Cramm last year and becoming the first Briton to win the crown three successively since 1913, Perry swept through to a sensational 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 triumph.

Perry's rout of Von Cramm was one of the fastest and most complete in Wimbledon finals history. In dropping only two games during the entire match the champion left Von Cramm almost dazed from his brilliantly accurate and almost superhumanly fast shots.

Toward the end of the match Von Cramm was not even trying for the hard ones, which Perry fired to all quarters of the court, tirelessly and relentlessly, never giving the German time to catch his breath.

Coates proved to be the big star of the two games in the Lawrence County League yesterday. Not only did he hurl winning ball but in addition he came through with a home run and a double. It was the first time this season that a pitcher won his own game and came through with a home run and doubles during the first half of the season.

The second half starts Fourth of July and no doubt the crowds will turn out to see the two games listed above and on Sunday journey to West Pittsburg and Hillsville. The league has provided many good games during the first half and with all the hurriers in form and rivalry hot the teams no doubt will make a strong race for the second half flag.

Stock Market Stronger Today

Strength In Auto Shares
And Improved Steel Action, Makes Market Strong

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 3.—Strength in the auto shares and improved action of the steel brought a stronger tone to the stock market today after early hesitation.

General Motors was the leader, rising a point in active dealings. Chrysler gained about as much, but was less prominent on the tape.

Trading was moderately active despite the restraining influences of the week-end holiday and Wall Street's desire to await developments in the drought and steel labor situations. Trade news was stimulating and told of gains in retail trade, automobile sales and production and railroad traffic. Large estimates were current of second quarter earnings reports, due in volume in the next few weeks.

U. S. Steel was sluggish in the first hour and then sold above 59 for a fractional gain, while the preferred rose over a point. Other steel issues improved in sympathy.

Utilities were in active demand in spots, particularly the electric power and light issues, and small gains were the rule.

Rails turned upward, with Chesapeake & Ohio a strong spot. Accessory shares worked higher with the motors. Briggs rising a point.

Farm implements and mail orders recovered after yesterday's break, but activity was limited. Elsewhere a firm tone prevailed.

Grains slipped after yesterday's bulge. Cotton was lower. Bonds were irregular.

Tokyo Apology Is Being Kept From Citizens

Japanese Apologize To U. S. For Treatment Of Americans In Peiping

(International News Service)
TOKYO, July 3.—Crushing censorship methods were applied by the Japanese government today to make certain that the Japanese public knows nothing about the Tokyo apology to Washington for recent rough treatment of two Americans in Peiping.

The American State Department's brief announcement in Washington that the Japanese reply to the United States' protest was "satisfactory" was banned from the vernacular newspapers.

With this censorship, and with a Japanese "spy trial" going on in Tokyo, the war ministry today found it inopportune to comment on the United States' Secretary of War Dorn's dispatch of an army commission to plan an air base in the vicinity of Fairbanks, Alaska.

"It is too early to comment," a war office spokesman explained.

WOMAN WITNESS AGAIN COLLAPSES

the questioning of her attorney, Samuel Golan, did not appear to disturb her.

Q. What was your attitude toward Miss Hayes in your reviews.

A. I treated her with the praise she deserved. I thought she was very good—one of the best.

Miss Frink then explained that only once in her married life had she depended upon MacArthur for financial support. That was when she became ill, quit her job and went to Ann Arbor, Mich., to live with a sister.

"How Did He Treat You?"

Q. How did he (MacArthur) treat you during your married life.

A. We had a lot of fun together. He was nice most of the time.

Q. Do you recall when he filed a cross-bill to your divorce action?

A. In the late winter of 1926.

Q. Did you see him later? A. I came to Chicago from Florida and saw him immediately. Most of our meetings were in the lawyers' office, but he came to see me once at the Congress hotel.

Q. Was there a discussion of the bill? A. Yes, once. I told him I was surprised, hurt and angry. I had always regarded him as a friend. I was fond of him and thought he was fond of me. I never made demands. I said I thought an adjustment could be worked out.

"Didn't Mean To Hurt Me"

"He replied that he didn't mean to hurt me. Apparently, he had no fury like a woman cross-billed."

Defense Attorney Jay Fred Reeve interposed here, and made Miss Frink repeat this remark several times. The witness then said:

"I filed a new bill then, after the cross-bill in which he charged desertion. He insisted he was going through with the cross-bill. The questioning was resumed:

Q. What happened when he came to see you at the Congress?

A. He came to my room and made love to me. He wanted to make up.

Q. What did he give you? A. He said he'd like to buy me something. He never liked my hats. So he went and bought a hat and odds and ends, and suggested a diamond bracelet.

Q. Did he give it to you. A. No.

Miss Frink explained incidents surrounding the writing of the play "Lulu Belle," which was MacArthur's first major literary achievement.

"He told me I must be patient with him, for this was for my own happiness. He said the play would be for his glory, but the money was for me."

Miss Frink then was put under cross-examination by Attorney Reeve and answered only a few questions before she collapsed.

Q. Are you sorry you brought this case. A. No.

Q. Do you still insist on going on with it? A. I think I have a right to have my story told. People have

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

DUST OR SPRAY BEANS TO SAVE FROM BEETLES

Mexican Beans Beetles already have appeared in gardens and now the fight is on to save the beans from their ravenous appetites.

Dusts recommended for use on beans vary, including a ready prepared Rotonone Dust carrying 1-2 to 3-4ths of one per cent Rotonone; or dusts may be made by the use of 1 pound high grade Calcium Arsenate to 7 pounds of hydrated lime; or 1 pound of Magnesium arsenate with 5 pounds of hydrated lime.

The Rotonone Dust has the advantage of being a non-arsenical poison which is not poisonous to humans. Care should be used in the use of arsenical dusts or sprays after the pods have formed on snap beans.

If the home made arsenical dusts are used, the materials should be prepared in a dust mixture. The material should be dusted on the underside of the leaves on a calm day. Four or five treatments ten or twelve days apart are usually considered sufficient.

Where liquid sprays are used the following formula is efficient: 3-4 ounce of calcium arsenate, 1 1/2 ounces of hydrated lime, and 3 gallons of water. Magnesium arsenate, at the rate of 2 pounds to 100 gallons of water, has been used successfully. The treatment should be used as soon as eggs are found on the plants.

Most of the bean beetle injury is done by the larvae which are yellow, spiny, slug-like creatures about one-fourth of an inch long. The bean leaves are skeletonized from the underside. Sections also may be eaten out of the pods, or pits may be eaten in their surfaces.

IMPROVE OLD PASTURES BY FEEDING THE SOIL

Improvement of mossy, weedy, run-down pastures in Lawrence County presents one of the most important problems in the agriculture of today. It is indeed unfortunate that very often the first step thought necessary by many farmers is to plow the old sod, no matter how steep the slope, plant a crop, and attempt to reestablish a sod. This is a waste of time, money, and labor. A better pasture sod can be produced in less time by applying the necessary fertilizer materials on the surface. A great many pasture improvement demonstrations illustrate the truth of this.

Ray Shook, of Clarion County, treated his old weedy, mossy pasture three years ago by applying one ton of ground limestone and 400 pounds of superphosphate (16%) to the acre. He followed this by a light dressing of manure, about six loads to the acre. Today he has one of the finest pastures in the state—one that three years ago would scarcely support a cow on four acres. Now it carries better than a cow to an acre and is saving him a great deal in feed and hay costs.

William Bruning, of Wayne County, has a fine 30-acre bluegrass clover pasture on a rocky hillside that is too rough to farm. Five years ago he applied one ton of limestone, 600 pounds of superphosphate, and a very light dressing of manure, all by hand on this 30 acre field. At that time the cows nibbled at the paint-brush, hard hack, and bedded down on the moss. Today that hand-treated 30 acre field easily carries his milking herd of 25 to 30 cows. The paint brush, moss, and hard hack cannot be found—the grass and his good management has discouraged them.

At the William S. Tiffany Farm in Susquehanna county some of the worn-out pastures were treated in the early spring of 1935 with one ton of limestone, about 500 pounds of superphosphate, and a little manure in places. Solid patches of paint brush are being overcome by Pennsylvania's natural wild white clover. Thorn bushes are being pulled and cut. Within the space of a few years these pastures will be the most productive acres on the farm. Previously they have been a liability—taxes had to be paid on non-productive acres.

Fred Birchard, of Susquehanna County, treated one acre of pasture three years ago with lime (1 ton) superphosphate (500 pounds), and a little manure. His cows have grazed continuously on this one acre ever since. Although this soil had an original lime requirement of three tons, it is still sweet in the surface two inches. Pennsylvania wild white clover has completely covered this closely grazed acre and is encouraging the growth of bluegrass.

Many others are treating their pastures this same way. Some are increasing the superphosphate application to 600 to 800 pounds to the acre. In addition to the lime, and are insuring quick results.

The secret of good pasture, is: first, treatment of the soil with lime and superphosphate to encourage clover and the grasses; second, good management which includes close, intermittent grazing with weeds, clipping to keep down weeds, and scattering of droppings.

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT WHEN PURCHASING HOSE

Nowadays 'stockings' mean silk stockings, and many are the complaints we hear from the wearers: "I spend so much for stockings and get so little wear from them." "How can you tell when you are buying good stockings?"

Few women realize that they are asking for two opposite qualities in the same pair of stockings, says Miss Mary Vogle, home economics extension representative. They want sheer hose and at the same time they want good wearing qualities. We often notice reference to two-thread or seven-thread hose. Two-thread hose are the sheer chiffon type, a six-thread hose is a light service weight. A seven-thread is one usually referred to as service chiffon, on which given the quality of sheerness combined with reasonable service.

There are two methods of knitting hose—the circular knit, used for men's socks, and children's hose, and the full fashioned knit, which makes a more shapely stocking. In the latter method the stocking is knit flat, and at the same time the heel and toe patches are sewed together. Most women's hose are knit in this manner. The "full fashioned" marks at the back show the stitches have been knit off in shaping the leg.

Examine a stocking for the seam up the back; notice that this seam is kept open on the wrong side of the heel. Circular knit hose are sometimes pressed to give the appearance of a full fashioned hose, but they do not retain their shape after washing. The full fashioned hose also give a better fitting foot. The gauge refers to the number of needles used in knitting 1 1/2 inches of the stocking. From 42 to 48 gauge is the usual fineness. A two-thread 48 gauge means a sheer hose made of fine thread.

Silk loses its elasticity and therefore its wearing quality with age. Therefore stockings which have been laid away for a long time, either in the store or at home will not wear well.

In buying hose, a general rule is to buy them three sizes larger than your shoe size. Another is to buy them one inch longer than your foot. Hose should not be short in the feet.

The top of a stocking should be elastic enough to stretch to 11 to 13 inches. From the heel across to the instep the stocking should stretch to seven inches. The leg is knit in lengths from 29 to 35 inches and 31 inches is average. Too long a stocking will wrinkle around the instep.

Proper care prolongs the life of hose. They should be washed before each wearing in lukewarm water.

Use only mild soap, and do not rub the soap on the hose. Rinse thoroughly, hang them up straight and dry away from direct heat. Darn worn spots before they wear into holes.

It is a good plan to buy two or more pairs of the same shade at the same time. A record of time of purchase, brand and length of service is helpful in purchasing new hose.

OLD STRAWBERRY BEDS MAY BE REJUVENATED

Many growers in Lawrence County follow the practice of keeping their strawberry beds in bearing 2 or 3 years. This gives varying degrees of success in financial returns as compared with the practice of making a new planting each year and fruiting the plants only one year.

Numerous experiments prove that fruit harvested either the second or third year is not equal to that picked the first bearing year, either in quantity or quality. The variation depends upon several factors, and in many cases growers are justified in rejuvenating their planting for additional crops. This work is best accomplished as soon after harvesting as possible. Such action allows a longer growing season and consequently a larger number of plants with a resulting larger yield.

Immediately after harvesting, the tops should be moved and the leaves burned or removed with a rake. A number of ways are employed in removing the old plants and working up the soil.

Several furrows are turned between the rows to reduce the width of the rows. This method will be more applicable during wet seasons but the use of a spring tooth harrow or a smoothing harrow will be found most efficient. The harrow should be set to remove plants and work the spaces between plants. As soon as enough plants in the row have been removed with the use of a harrow, the cultivator can be employed to narrow the rows and work up the spaces between rows. A row of plants a foot wide should be ample for the development of a matted row by fall.

Application of a nitrogen-carrying fertilizer, such as nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia, at the rate of 200 to 250 pounds an acre should be made. This material can be applied most satisfactorily before the planting is worked with the harrow, as this operation will aid in mixing the fertilizer with the soil.

Cultivation should be continued as in the case of newly set plants.
